Editor's Note

---

It almost doesn't seem real. Everyone wants to be like everything is normal. But it isn't. iFiddle hasn't been political at all, but we are going to get a little real.

For too long, I haven't said what i really feel. Now it's time. We must make a stand against tyranny and many things that, in the past, we just kind of passed over. Like the folks who are doing everything they can to undermine this Republic. Some on the left say our President is doing a great job and by undoing all the previous President's policies, he's saving us. Those on the right say the opposite: the current President is a career politician and he's a puppet of the former President Barry.

So who are we to believe? I say none of them. That's the problem! We have become complacent folks. No one knows much anymore. Put your mask on and shut up! Don't go outside! Keep your distance. Wash your hands constantly. And on and on!

So, with all that in mind, let's decide to move on and start filling the world with music and peace.

I know the bug was real. I got it. It stopped me from playing fiddle for over a year, but now I see a little clearer.

For those who have forgotten what music is and was, I've included some flash cards for you to memorize.

We're coming out of the Winter and into Spring. Let's start playing and letting the days go by.

accordion

acoustic guitar

keyboard

recorder

triangle

tambourine

maracas

electric guitar

drum kit

harp

xylophone

cello

fiddle

trumpet

saxophone

piano

A photograph of a winter scene. A road covered in snow and tire tracks leads into the distance. On either side of the road are tall, bare trees with snow-laden branches. A dark car is visible in the distance, driving away from the viewer. The sky is overcast and grey.
